

The Intel® Teach Program

With over 6 million teachers trained in more than 50 countries, the Intel® Teach Program has been driving systemic change in teaching and learning since 1999. Teachers learn from other teachers how, when, and where to incorporate technology into their lesson plans, with a focus on developing students' 21st century skills. Participating teachers experience new approaches to create assessments and align lessons with educational learning goals and state and national standards. Learn more at www.intel.com/teachers
